The Media Development Think Tank

WEBINAR

Towards more responsive media development in Latin America and the Caribbean

Across Latin America and the Caribbean, many public interest outlets operate in politically polarized, economically unstable, and structurally fragmented environments, and remain excluded from traditional donor frameworks. International funding cuts and the stigmatization of foreign-funded media have further intensified threats to independent media. Nevertheless, media development actors in the region continue to demonstrate extraordinary resilience, leadership, and innovation. Based on insights gathered from key informants and survey data, DW Akademie invites you to explore the complexities of media support in Latin America and the Caribbean and to discuss what it would take to create more inclusive, flexible, and context-aware support strategies. The webinar will be conducted in Spanish and English.
